COVID-19 Cashflow & Funding Opportunities

What is cashflow?

Cashflow is the cash and cash-equivalents being transferred into and out of business.

Cash inflows are items such as customer payments, debtor receipts, proceeds from the disposals of assets or bank loan receipts.

Cash outflows are items such as staff wages and salaries, overhead payments, payments for new assets, Bank loan repayments or payments to the Revenue Commissioners.

The resulting net effect of all cash inflows and outflows is known as a company's free cash flow position.

The key to emerging from the current crisis is a company's ability to generate positive free cash flows.

Impact of COVID-19 On Cashflow

COVID-19 has negatively impacted virtually all businesses in Ireland, with some exceptions which may benefit, but the vast majority will see negative consequences.

Having a strong balance sheet will help companies position to weather this storm as they can divert the lack of cash inflows with greater access to capital and vast cash reserves.

The greatest challenge will be faced by small businesses who do not have the same access to capital or internal resources required to cover their cash outflows.

Except for frontline staff, COVID-19 ensures the population are confined to their homes. This lack of movement has resulted in a significant decline in consumption by both consumers and businesses alike.

With customers confined to their homes, most businesses have had to shut-up-shop or work remotely and therefore cutting access to most, if not all, of their sales and cash receipts. Cash-in-hand can rapidly deteriorate, with receipts reduced and expenses such as rent, utilities, employee costs, and suppliers still due for payment.

If a business fails to navigate the unwanted issue of negative free cash flow, then insolvency or permanent closure may soon be on the horizon.

Responding to the Crisis

Businesses need to manage Net Cashflow to respond to the current economic crisis. It is essential to take a sensible approach to maintain stakeholder relationships & keep the lines of communications open. Companies cannot merely avoid paying creditors or goodwill will quickly be eroded.

Businesses should first respond by adopting a structure which helps identify drivers of their cashflow and engages stakeholders.

Businesses can use the following 3P's Framework in managing their cashflow during COVID-19.

PLAN:

- Complete Cash Projections on a daily or weekly basis
- Undertake scenario, What-if analysis
- Analyse Working Capital Requirements, e.g. Stock, Receivables & Payables
- Delay any Cap-Ex Projects
- Review all Banking Facilities
- Identify payments which can be stalled, e.g. drawings, rent, rates
- Increase creditor days outstanding & reduce debtors days outstanding
- Assess external funding supports available

PEOPLE:

- Create a list of stakeholders, e.g. suppliers, landlord, banks and shareholders.
- Engage with stakeholders early and transparently.
- Use forecasted projections to outline current business condition.
- Engage with landlords on rent freeze or reduction.
- Engage with banks on loan moratoriums.

PERFORM:

- Deliver upon what has been negotiated between your business and the stakeholder.
- Check Bank & put stop or hold on unessential direct debits, eg. Rates.
- Create a business plan to outline the strength of the business case outside of COVID-19
- Furnish business plan and projections to banks.
- Minimise the cash outflows of the business.
- Complete regular variance analysis between actual financial results -V- forecasted.
- Regularly update projections
- Adjust your action plan according to current circumstances.
